Those walking a 310 km-long track — that runs between Rome and Ortona — are invited to accumulate around a fountain, that is designed as a assembly place for associate pilgrims and booze lovers.

"The fountain is done by a famous Italian designer Rocco Valentini, so indeed it's not only a place to splash though a square of complicated art interjection to his work," a orator for a winery told Mashable.

In a fountain's initial week, thousands of visitors have come to drink.

However, there is one caveat.

The orator stressed that a booze fountain is not a takeaway point. If we wish to suffer a wine, you'll have to stay put.
